1974 QUAIL CLASSIC

by Kay Clark

National and Fld. Ch. Augustus of Rivers, a well-known ten year old orange and white, earned the distinction of being the only Brittany to have won the Quail Classic twice with his first place at Albany, Georgia, last November. Gus' bracemate, Fld. Ch. Jacolet's Wandering Star, took second, and this thrilling twosome ran in the first brace of the first day! But because scenting conditions gradually improved through the three days' of running, even with such an exciting start, things never dulled for a minute.

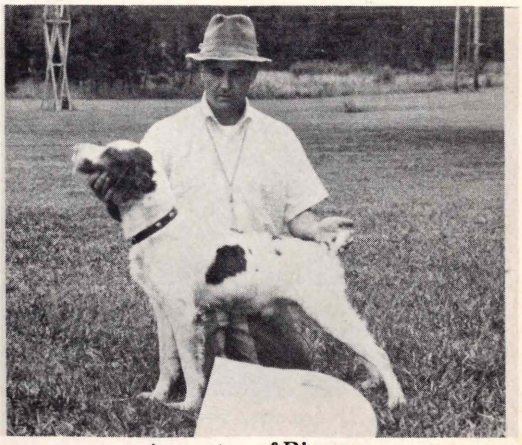

It helps of course when you have 36 of the top all-agers competing on the finest quail country in the world. The members of the host club Greater Atlanta were overwhelmed with the beauty and abundance of birds on Mr. Paul Mountcastle's 15,000 acre Blue Springs Plantation. The generosity and hospitality of people like Mr. Ralph Bruner, manager of Blue Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Evans, owners of Tallassee Plantation, Mr. Ralph Allison, President of the Southern Field Trial Club, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cooper, managers of the South Dougherty Community Center will long be appreciated by those who were privileged to attend this 13th running of the ABC Quail Classic. Our sincere thanks and deepest admiration is extended to Mr. Mountcastle for allowing us to spend a few days at his fantastic Southern home.

The tireless judging team of Mr. Casey Black and Mr. Ralph Allison watched with great interest our smaller, short-tailed hunters afield and were pleasantly surprised to find the Brittany had all the range, stamina and nose a bird dog could want. The entrants as a whole handled the huge covey rises and grassy cover exceptionally well. The large gallery following the braces on horseback and mule-drawn hunt wagons saw over 700 quail flushed each day.

Chairman and Secretary Dave Clark with the help of his committee did an outstanding job on the advertising and running of the Classic. Their many weeks of hard work certainly paid off — and so did that long trip way down South for those who came from as far away as Kansas, Michigan, or New York.

THE RUNNING

Augustus of Rivers—Jacolet's Wandering Star. Breakaway at 7:30 a.m. Monday, November 4, 1974. These two powerhouses slammed into point less than 3 minutes after being turned loose and were each credited with a well-handled find. Gus' bullish forward race landed him another covey deep in the pines. He froze on that classic point staunch and proud then waited at least 8 minutes for the judges to get there. Star in the meantime had drawn most of the gallery with her for which she produced two more well-located coveys topped off with a back on a non-productive. Both were going away at the end of the hour.

Augustus of Rivers
Winner 1974 Quail Classic

Minnie Ha Ha II—Jacolet Blue. Minnie was picked up after 5 minutes by handler Jerry Cohen. Having recently been kicked by a horse, she was unwilling to contend with the large horseback gallery around her. Blue was seen at 7, then lost again, & was out of judgement.

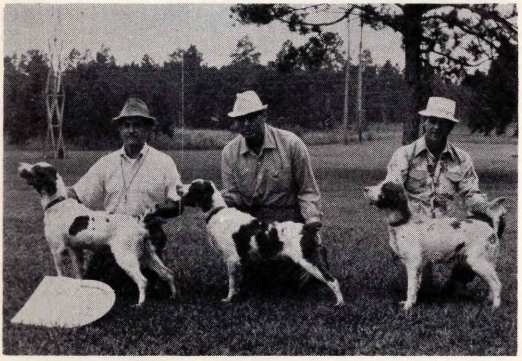

Perry's Rustic Prince—HoJo's Jake. Rusty had one back but no recorded finds as he was lost about halfway through the hour's heat and not found until 10 minutes after pick-up. Jake's first intense point and a second covey find after relocation spurred him on to a strong finish. He was brought in 8 minutes after time was up.

Ringo De Britt—Senator T. J. Both dogs took out on a hot and heavy deer chase and came back with tongues dragging. Ringo and Senator stumbled into a stop to flush but it was obvious they both were exhausted.

Tex's Air Man—Copper Creek Bob. Neither dog cooperated during the warm, humid afternoon. Both handlers elected to pick their dogs up — Bob at 20 minutes, Tex at 28.

Fructus Proterram Penny—La-Pitt Pinoak Dixie. Penny ran a close but consistent forward race and had four covey finds, one stop to flush, but failed to back. Dixie looked good with her three stylish finds, one unproductive, and classy race; however she collapsed from heat prostration after 40 minutes.

Brandy's Bullet—W. Hume's Mike. Mike was picked up by Holman after 20 minutes with one unproductive for not handling satisfactorily. Bullet had four perfect finds, 2 stop to flushes, and a close but consistent race. He was in good condition at the finish even though he had been quite ill the week before.

Augustus of Rivers with Jim White, Majestic Jake with John Lee, and Pizzaz with Jim Holman—Jacolet Wandering Star (2nd) not shown

Blue Grass Tex—Hi-Spirit Shenandoah. Breakaway was at 7:20 a.m. Tuesday. Tex did a beautiful job and had he not been lost near the end of his hour, could have been one of the winners. Bracemate Shen had some difficulty staying on course and had to be frequently scouted.

Yaucher's Ra-Pa-Lu—Rebel Roi Des Champs Rebel had 3 covey finds, clean, but had slowed down considerably by the 9:30 pick-up. Lu, on the other hand, was another one of those dogs who was used to running to the limits of the course — except these courses have no limits! He was lost at 15 and found 4 hours later still hunting.

Brit of Delray—Spartan Town Squire. Brit is a great hunting dog, but was not in condition for the hour. Both handlers decided to pick up since the dogs were not running their normal race.

Air Cargo De Britt—Dan De Mille's Gus. Again, both handlers asked to pick up their dogs. The heat and humidity seemed to be effecting the run and birdwork.

Harmony Lane Cindy's Cheri—Star's Lucky XIII. Lucky's birdwork left something to be desired. He had one unproductive and a successful point after a relocation. Cheri, better known as Duchess, came up with two clean covey finds but her race lacked the style and range it usually has.

Majestic Jake—Nor-Mel's Clyde. Clyde started out strong with a solid back on Jake's first point. On Clyde's first find however, he took 3 steps after flush and was immediately picked up by his handler. Jake was a vacuum cleaner. He roared through his hour with one find after another. On some of his points, 2 or 3 different coveys would flush after the shot. It was like popcorn, and Jake just stook still and watched. It was hard to keep count, but we think Jake ended his hour with six finds, one stop to flush, still going strong — and smiling.

Lightning's Princeton Ladd—Homer. Ladd and Homer suffered from the same affliction that afternoon, they figured they were in quail heaven and went off to self-hunt. They came up with a total of 8 coveys, but were hard to handle and had tendencies to work to the side and come up from the rear.

Rusty's Rambling Rascal Brown—Le Pradalan. Breakaway at 7:28 a.m. Wednesday. The night's rainfall (the first rain in weeks) and the cooler weather must have confused the quail as they were not moving in the early morning. Scent was strong and both Rusty and Lad had trouble accurately locating. The birds were there somewhere but neither dog looked tight.

Harmony Lane Cinamon Ho-Boy—Pizzaz. Hoby was running wide and out of control most of the hour. He had a back on Pizzaz then took off. After being scouted back in, he poinnted a large covey right next to the gallery in good form, but was picked up at 58 when his handler caught him trying to go back and point a marked bird. Pizzaz meanwhile was covering the ground with style, to the front, and handling birds nicely. She finished with a faultless hour.

Jacco Cutty Sark—A Little Bit Of Tess. Cutty covered the ground at a nice medium range and had 3 clean coveys. He went on to locate a double and another single out of the previous finds. Tiny Tess leaped over, under, and through the cover perhaps too close to the edges of the course to come up with the birds that seemed to be mostly in front of the gallery. She ended the hour strong but with only one clean find.

Ware's Triumph Of Rivers—Chipp Britt Jill. Ty wasn't up for the Classic. He seemed tired when he started and was soon picked up by his handler. Jill, on the other hand, did not seem the least bit affected by the change from snowy New York to warm Georgia until the last 5 minutes. She flew all over the countryside, probably got off on deer, but showed to the front often enough to stay in contention. Right at the last Jill had 2 finds, and after that she quit running and started hunting close.

SILLY ISN'T SILLY, REALLY

by Sam Clements

I hunkered behind a horse trailer to soak a little sun and escape a biting Oklahoma wind. I hurt. Or is it hurted? And I thought.

I thought of silly things—like getting my car over here the other day. Got stopped in Arizona for a routine driver's license check. The cop, after asking a few questions said, "This may take a while. You seem to be spread a little thin; Texas tags, an Arizona driver's license, an Oklahoma address—and—you look like the Israeli Minister of Defense!" "A pilgrim," I 'lowed, "who believes in spreading his business around." Try to sell that one!

Then I heard the song—a lonesome song or a joyous song, depending on your body chemistry—of the two handlers approaching the "grounds." A pro hacked and sputtered getting his dog past a hundred other dogs and going again.

This guy has a pretty, girlie wife who rides a pretty, girlie horse. Once in Decatur, she and I were hustling dogs and horses in weather you wouldn't believe—dark as the inside of a black cow and pouring rain. When we finished, I drifted by the pro's rig and there was this pretty gal, standing in the rain, holding a cigarette lighter up to the mirror on the pickup with one hand and putting on her lipstick with the other. Now, that's girlie!

Other silly thoughts—and thankful for them.

The quickest way I know of to start a small town rodeo is to try to get Miss A to stand at the line while the judges, marshal and gallery gather. Wiser, if your dog will stand, to hang around the horse trailer until the troops are on the line and then step on the horse and catch up about the time they say, "Let 'um go."

We really got our feet tangled up at a trial in Texas a couple of years back. All the silly in the county happened.

First, there was this guy with the run away dog who had tried for five years, without success, to get that critter into the bird field just one time. Feeling that perseverence needs rewarding, we banded ourselves together in what amounted to a team of twenty handlers and "loose-herded" the old dog around the back course. It worked. As his proud charge smoked into the bird field and the owner dismounted to pursue him, the dog smashed into the point of the century. "Oh, no," I thought, "what if he wins it!" Fortunately, when the bird went, the dog went with him and we were off the hook.

And then, there was the case of too much handle. We've all seen it. A fellow from around the middle of West Texas was running a fine, young, greenbroke dog, just turned all age. The pup stood on a bird with all the class in the world until the handler put the quail up into a howling wind. The old bird just hung up there about three feet in the air and two feet ahead of the dog. As the dog lunged for the bird the handler screamed, "Whoah" and the poor pup sucked back with only a feather to show for his effort—but determined. Another lunge, another "Whoah" and this time, two feathers. Encouraged, the dog took dead aim, ignored the handler and nailed the bird out of mid air—slick and clean.

The handler returned to the "grounds", put the pup on a line and stood off glaring at him—just literally fuming. A self appointed tormentor, a guy who carries a big, green fountain pen, wandered over, petted the pup, looked over at the irate handler and said, "Nice dog, George." The handler jumped three feet into the air, became totally thyroidic and commenced yelling, "Why, blurp, blurp, blurp, that sorry so and so. Anybody who would feed that miserable hound oughta have his head examined."

To which the tormentor replied, "He's a nice pup, George, you just over-handled him. You yelled your head off, scared the pup half to death and made him look clumsy. If you had left him alone, he would have nailed the bird on the first shot." As the handler clawed for a tree limb, with which to render mayheim, the guy with the fountain pen, sensing that discretion is the better part of . . . , eased around a horse trailer and departed.

All of us have seen a guy, including ourselves, handled his first dog at a field trial. Oh, how shook up we do get.

On the day of our big silly in Texas, one of our guys, as starting time approached for his brace, was pacing himself, his dog and his horse goofy. On the way up to the starting line, I eased by and said, "Cousin, why don't you mount up your horse, relax and let me stand your dog up for you." While I held the dog on the line, awaiting the arrival of the judges and the other handler, this guy rode up in an obvious state of semi-shock. His whistle was clinched between his teeth, he was white around the mouth, the veins bulged out in his neck and his eyes were totally glazed over. Before I could say, "Hold your hosses, pardner", the distraught handler hit his go whistle, the dog lunged and hauled me half way around the back course.

We got reorganized and the new handler made it around. The dog was standing on point before his master dismounted. The handler reached for his musket—a little Derringer, or something—and fumbled, without success, for the safety until the bird and the dog ran out of patience and departed. We finally got the handler snubbed down, got a rope on him and got him back to the "grounds."

Things really got wild when this same guy came around on his next brace. This time, as his dog pointed, old Jim had either lost or forgotten his pistolla. A friend, sensing the urgency of the situation, charged around to the gallery, borrowed a pistol, returned and threw it into the bird field. Just as big as a bear, old Jim walked over, calmly picked up the gun, walked ahead of his dog, put the bird into the air—and—bam! And guess what? That's right! The guy won a field trial! Oh, my soul. Drunks, fools, little children and bird doggers the good Lord does indeed look after.

Enough of silly thoughts.

As night approached, a pro—an old, old and treasured friend—a real "non-blinker"—with whom I had been hustling dogs, said, "Why don't you step on that "hoss" over there and ride the sundown brace with me. Sundown brace? To me it was the morning brace—the beginning of a new ball game. And ride we did. Fast into the wind we rode—pro against pro—fast and far and wide we rode. But no birds. I knew that both pros knew that there's a small amount—if only a small amount—of comfort in a good dog's going birdless. The dog generally otherwise looks his best and we can always think—what might have been.

At pick up time, I was reminded of the words of the man: "Yesterday's race is run and tomorrows is uncertain, but for the goodness of that moment . . ." Oh, the goodness of that moment.

Sometimes, silly isn't silly, really. Sometimes the need for silly is awesome.

LETTER TO DAD

by S. Brittany

Dear Dad,

I shall be eternally grateful to you for the kindness I received during the recent hunting season. Although writing is difficult and requires a lot of effort on my part, this letter is but a token of my appreciation.

Thank you ever so much for sacrificing yourself while attending to my every need during the season. I realize that you did not enjoy rushing home every Friday after a hard day at the office only to don hunting clothes, load me and your gear into the camper and drive three hours to reach the hunting area. Arising at dawn on Saturday and Sunday to follow me through the fields for eight or ten hours must have been an even greater burden.

Pushing through all those weeds, and sometimes thorns, for hours on end must have been very hard on you. Surely, pulling cactus spines and sand burrs out of my feet with your bare hands was torturous for you.

How you must have hated having to run to me whenever I found a bird. I know you're out of shape and don't like to run. Just walking behind me was bad enough, but you, Dad, you were willing to run whenever I demanded.

Another thing for which I am grateful, dear old Dad, was your willingness to shoot at the birds I found. I think you missed some of those easy shots on purpose. But I forgive you, because you always felt sorry for me and carried the ones we got.

Because those trips were for my benefit and I had most of the fun, I should have carried the birds. But then I'm kinda small when compared to you so I made you carry them. Please accept my sincere apology for not being a better sport. I promise to do better in years to come.

Come to think of it, you also had to carry that old heavy shotgun all day in case we needed it. And also, you stood upright all day in the teeth of those cold winds which sometimes brought tears to your eyes. Meanwhile, I was down in the weeds out of the chilling wind. At the time, I didn't realize how you were suffering and I'm sorry for not being more considerate.

Really, Dad, I did not realize the agony I was causing you every weekend. Now that I've had time to think, I really feel bad. Because you were so nice this year, I promise to stay home next year.

Of course, Mom will not like our staying home. But you can help her watch television and maybe you can get dressed up in your fancy clothes and entice her to go out for dinner and dancing. Won't that be a lot more fun? Mom will probably be upset because my disposition will be bad, but I'll try real hard not to make her unhappy.

Some other things you could do would be playing cards with our nice neighbors. Or maybe you could go to some basketball games or hockey games. If you don't have to get up early with me, you can stay out as late as you like on Friday and Saturday night. You can probably save some money too. A night out must be cheaper than a weekend hunting trip.

Truly, Dad, next year I'll only be thinking of your happiness. Happy weekends!

Your loving Brittson,
SAM

P.S. Thanks again for leaving the cozy camper after those hard days afield to feed and water me and put me in my nice warm box. Brrrr.

A BETTER TENT . . .

Are you still using that old family tent that weighs a ton, takes four people to pitch and strike, and smells of mildew? Well, Trailblazer by Winchester has a better idea—a brand new line of lightweight, colorful family tents that combine taffeta nylon walls with cotton drill roofs. The use of nylon makes the tent as strong and as light as possible and the cotton drill roofs provide breathability where it is needed most, to control condensation. Big screened windows and doors provide superior ventilation, and heavy-duty vinyl floors will take lots of abuse. The new line of family tents offers a wide variety of sizes and shapes. These new tents weigh roughly 50 percent less than canvas tents of comparable size.

THE MOST IMPORTANT 3 WEEKS IN A DOG'S LIFE

by Luther Lawrence

This is not a brilliant observation on my part—it's merely a fact taken from the good authority of people who have done the research that determined the critical periods of a pup's development.

From the ages of four to seven weeks a puppy should learn what is called socialization. This means that the pups learn to like and appreciate people.

Up until this time the pup has had mama and his littermates to build his whole concept of this world. The vital change is from relying on other dogs to his acceptance of human handling. Let's say the pup learns to appreciate people—all through this dog's life he is constantly trying to avoid the disagreeable and acquire what he likes. Praise and punishment we call it—a basic and fundamental part of the dog's learning process. It is conceded that praise does many times more good than punishment in training a dog. Now, if you have a dog that doesn't give a damn about praise there is no way you can make any appreciable progress in his training. Some dogs try so hard to please their human master that training is easy. You can praise or punish merely by changing the tone of your voice.

In a puppy stake, judges look for DESIRE—mostly desire to hunt and find birds. How about the DESIRE TO PLEASE the handler? Having a dog with an intense desire to please makes him easier to train. It makes the dog seem very intelligent and certainly makes him a pleasure to live with.

Dog people should select a pup with at least three generations of GOOD dogs that have already produced GOOD pups. Then be very careful during the critical three weeks between four and seven weeks of age, give the pup a lot of pleasant human attention for three weeks and you may enjoy the rich rewards of a real canine friend for as long as he lives. Add a lot of work and luck!!!

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF SUE

by Herb Krumrine

7 A.M.—"Ummm! Here we go again. Nan's getting up to wake Richie for school. Guess I'll take this opportunity to request my morning constitutional. She's always busy this time of the day, and maybe she'll forget I'm out and I can have a little fun."

7:15—"Hey! I made it! She didn't see me slip off. Now to head for the . . .Ha! She's calling me. Fat chance I'll listen to her. Uh oh! Nancy and her big mouth got Herb awake, and now he's calling. Oh well, it was fun while it lasted."

8:30—"Guess I'll sack out for a few hours.—Boy! Was I wrong! Kristi and Tara just rolled out. Wish I could stuff some cotton in my ears."

9:00—"Oh boy! Things are looking up! Breakfast is over and it looks like leftovers. Think I'll just reach up here and . . .Okay, Okay! I'm getting down! Boy, can't even get a few crumbs around this place!"

10:00—"Finally! Looks like things are going to quiet down for awhile. Guess I'll try for a couple of winks."

12:00—"Ow! For cryin' out loud Tara, get the *#+¢ off my back! Hey, Nan's rousting her off. Maybe she's not too bad after all. However, I think I'll try for the fields again."

12:05—"Outside again. What's that? The phone's ringing. She'll have to answer that! Now's my chance to find some feathers.!"

1:30—"Wow, I'm getting pooped! Nancy's been calling me for quite a while. Well, I better go back."

5:00—"Hey, here comes Herb home. Now comes work time. He'll take me out to train and wonder why I'm not real sharp. Nan won't dare tell him she lost me today. Guess I better give it my best shot, anyway."

7:30—"Home again. Now to get some chow and then to sleep. Since Herb's here I'll be able to sleep in MY chair. Can't do it during the day. Nan gets uptight—thinks it's HER furniture."

11 P.M.—"Out again and then to bed. That bedroom closet will feel so-o-o good tonight."

11:30—"Ah! I'll just curl up in here and get my good night's sleep and get ready for tomorrow's grind. GOODNIGHT ALL!"

SAHUARO

We are all used to an assortment of horses and dogs at field trials, but the Dean Darlings from Las Vegas, Nevada, arrived complete with their pet goat! It had traveled cross-country with them to and from Kansas and followed their boys everywhere.

The banquet Saturday night was invaded by a real hip-looking character complete with zoot-suit, shoulder length hair, and large dark glasses. Imagine the surprise and delight of the congregation when Ejner Lund was discovered under that wig!

Congratulations to Marc Appleton and Cliff Boggs who really raked in the trophies winning as new professional trainers.

Another Amateur Field Champion was finished this weekend—Chieftain's Little Dingo owned and handled by Isaac Vigil. Congratulations and good luck!

GREATER PHOENIX

Carol Brown and I tried very hard to find out the proper hunting objectives on a wide open mountain meadow single course with the closest trees ½ mile away without appearing unknowledgeable. We asked, "Is a pattern the proper application for the dogs?" and other such questions, trying to be unobtrusive. But there seemed to be no other way than look dumb, because everyone kept telling us, "The dog should hunt the toolies." Now, there ain't no such thing in Texas as a 'toolie', or at least if there is we never heard of it, and look as we would we could not determine anything that might be a 'toolie'. So we just finally had to ask outright, "What is a toolie, and why should the dog go there?" (Cause all that grass looked much the same to us.) Well, our education is now more complete: A toolie is a tall, thin reedy grass, usually growing in lines near marshy places where pheasants like to hide. (There are not many pheasants in Texas, either.)

El Ray Shanna threw a champagne party Saturday afternoon to celebrate her new championship. The bubbles were enjoyed by all, and the sun wasn't the only thing that sparkled.

Boy! They surely do raise tough jack rabbits out here! Instead of the dogs chasing rabbits, there was one rabbit that was chasing a dog with the handlers, judges, and gallery hot on his heels! Wonder what a cross between that jack and a Brittany would throw?

Now ardent field trialers are nothing new but Reggie Phillips proved to have a downright stubborn streak too. I understand from the three guys that went to New Mexico with him that there was "no way" that he was going to leave the grounds Sunday before he found out if Dan had placed in the Derby. Waiting from noon to dark for placements was wearisome, but nothing compared to the 8 hour drive that followed! But Reggie didn't mind driving most of the way home with that blue ribbon dangling from the rear-view mirror! It's just that those other 3 guys are sure leary of taking him on any more long trips.

As a matter of fact, there were two blue ribbons hanging up there because Second Chance completed her Amateur Championship. Congratulations, honey.

FORT WORTH

'Twas the first day of the field trial
When what should appear before our wondering eyes
But a snow white mule with mane cut in style.

Rex Tackett & his Jennet

Rex Tackett's new white mule has to be the best looking mule ever. His strange braying he-haws answered the neighing horses to keep us amused all weekend. I understand that Rex is going to change the call letters of his radio station to K-ASS!

Fred Bremner promised first thing Saturday morning not to say anything that he would be quoted for in the magazine and silence reigned. Silence is golden, but not forever, please. So much for promises, Fred!

The children of the trialers camping on the grounds gathered in the barn to talk Saturday night while their folks were visiting elsewhere. The daring young men took turns flying from rafter to rafter. But one young Tarzan didn't quite make it, and Raymond Morris, Jr. had a cast on his wrist to prove it. Tough break, Raymond!

Now, let's see, David Andrews—just how was it that you got stung THERE by a wasp?

That sweet sound of pickin' and singing by Richard Loughridge is becoming an eagerly anticipated tradition—especially if Darrell Gaynor is present to help with "Ol' Shep".

TEXAS COASTAL

The quote of the season came after a rather lengthy relocation which finally produced a single quail feather. The handler held it under his dog's nose and asked questioningly, "Was this what you were pointing from 200 yds. out?"

John Carey gets the rodeo award for this weekend, but with a new twist—he did it with a car instead of a horse! In the dark he leaped from the bank of the road, ending up astraddle the Little Grand Canyon. It took all hands that could be persuaded to leave the Happy Hour and Randy Jones' engineering ability to extricate him from his predicament. And while we were helping John get back on the road, Bill Norvell and Harold Lloyd gathered up all the kids and took them to the graveyard nearby for the annual Halloween "treat". I understand that they couldn't get a single kid to kiss a tombstone; and I missed the whole thing, doggone it!

Congratulations to Harold and Carol Brown for finishing their up and coming dog Lost Rivers Copper Diggins when he won the Open All Age.

LONE STAR

If you thought those jack rabbits at Sunland were tough, you should have seen the quail that chased one dog down the road for 200-300 yds. The judges and gallery didn't even scare that determined old hen.

We have all seen enthusiastic, brand new field trialers, but the guy in the Puppy stake had to take the cake. He walked his puppy while his wife rode the handler's horse back in the gallery to watch. The judge was puzzled as to why the guy kept stopping every few steps. But the mystery was solved when the handler turned around and took a snapshot of the judge! I understand he got some nice close-ups of his dog on that roll of film, and you have rarely seen two more pleased people.

It almost looked like a photographers' convention with several enthusiasts sporting telephoto lens to catch candid kickoffs and birdfield activities. Heard that Bill Norvell caught a little "birdfield activity" of Bullet's on film too. Was it the click of the camera or the click of the trigger that did it, Bill?

Congratulations to Ralph Swaim for finishing Texas Hillstreet Heckle to his field championship! That placement added another notch to a rather outstanding record, not only for Ralph, but particularly for the Fort Worth Brittany Club. This young club, started barely four years ago, now can boast of finishing 11 champions—and all but one of them handled by amateurs!

5 Field Champions 3 Amateur Champions 2 Bench Champions 1 Obedience Champion	}	That is 9 different dogs owned by 5 different people.

Keeping rolling 'em in, Fellows.

TOP O' TEXAS

The Panhandle is no slouch when it comes to producing weird weather. Saturday was balmy with a few scattered showers turning to a blue norther with snow by Sunday night—again proving the adage that if you don't like the weather in Texas, just stick around for awhile. Sunday was the Day of Lost Dogs, with at least four lost on the multiple course at one time. Now we can understand how you can lose dogs at Decatur in all those trees, Frank Roach, but in that little short sagebrush? I must admit that some of those babies were really hooking it!

I'd like to see an instant replay of Jerry Watkins tripping all over a ten acre plum thicket. It seems that one of his spurs got tangled up in the brush while he was attempting to flush, and he finally ended up with his feet in the air rather than a bird! Boy, you ought to see his legs! No, on second thought . . .

The hospitality of this club is as big as the endless open spaces of the area. A warmer reception is hard to find anywhere, and thoughtfulness is the watchword. From housing your horses to transporting you several miles by trailer back to headquarters at the end of a hard day's ride, their hospitality rates an A+ in my book.

Understand if you want to get directions for "How to Get Lost in Pampa" though, all you have to do is ask Dr. Zachary. Seems you end up in the middle of the football game traffic complete with horse trailer.

SOONER

Bo Guest: "Rain, rain, go away! Come again some other day!"

Handlers in Open All-Age and Derby stakes: "Just singing in the rain, I'm singing in the rain . . ."

All: "Water, water everywhere but not a 'drop' to drink (till we get to the Oasis Room).

Lyle Johnson to Rick Smith upon finding out about the upcoming blessed event: "I just had to show you how."

ALAMO

It was just too dadburned COLD for anything funny to happen! Even the trialers from that foreign country Connecticut said it was too cold. But the warmth of the fire, the always ready pot of fresh coffee, and the amicable friendship of these people always keeps a warm glow in our hearts.

STOP TO FLUSH

by Jerry Fundingsland

Just how do you define a stop to flush and how do you teach it?

A stop to flush can be accurately defined as the dog stopping at the flight of a bird under conditions which would make it improbable that the flight of the bird was the dog's fault.

There are several conditions under which that could occur; the most obvious of which is the dog approaching the bird from upwind and having no chance to scent the bird. Often, a dog will come upon a bird from crosswind, scent the bird, and point as the bird takes flight. In addition, occasionally a bird may take flight because of a bracemate's error.

In any of these three instances, a proper stop to flush should cause no penalty to the dog, but should be credited to him as additional evidence of manners in the presence of game.

A failure to stop to flush should be heavily penalized if that failure is followed by a deliberate chase. In such an instance, the dog should be eliminated, except in rare cases where judges need a dog for placement because of greatly inferior performance or greater degree of error of other contestants. Such a dog should be used only if the above exists and only if there are no placements withheld.

Generally, a dog should be given the benefit of the doubt if there is any question whether the dog saw the birds or not and if there is no deliberate chase.

Often, a bump is incorrectly interpreted as a stop to flush, if it is a "mannerly" bump and the dog immediately stops. (Is there such a thing as a "mannerly" bump?) This occurs when a dog is aware of the presence of game, is pottering with ground scent, and the bird takes flight. This is not a stop to flush, but rather a bump. Whether deliberate or not, the bump could have been avoided by correct work on the part of the dog.

Such an incident should not be a credit to the dog's manners, (if he stops at flight), but rather should result in penalty because of incorrect handling of game.

Teaching a mannerly stop to flush is easier than one may think, and can be done quite effectively with the use of planted game. The basic idea is to "set up" situations that may occur under actual hunting or field trial conditions.

This can be done by planting a bird and check-cording the dog into the bird with the wind. The bird will flush before the dog has a chance to scent it. The instant the bird begins flight, whoa the dog. Some use the "silent treatment", and merely dump the dog and set him back up where it all started, and not saying a word. Sometimes this is more effective.

Repitition and consistancy are the keys in this phase of training. Set up several similar situations from both upwind and crosswind. This, like many other phases of training, may require "imagination" on the part of the trainer.

Once your dog has those situations relatively mastered, you will need the use of another dog, preferably a puppy or derby, to teach yours similar manners when the flight of the bird is caused by a bracemate.

Generally, a bracemate error comes from two positions: (1) Your dog is pointing and bracemate is honoring; bracemate moves past your dog, bumps the bird, and chases or (2) Your dog is honoring bracemates point; bracemate takes out bird.

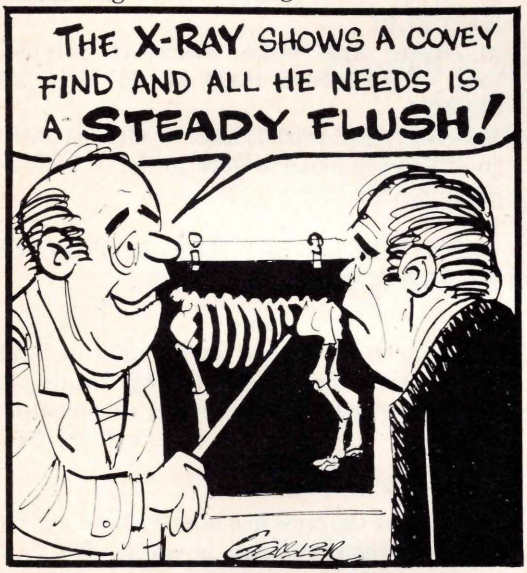

Both of these situations can be "set up" by using a young dog you know "can't resist". Set up both situations and follow the same pattern of correction you did without a bracemate.

One very important point should be emphasized here. Never Let A Dog Correct Himself! Too often a dog will stop to flush correctly, then continue hunting. Do not let him do it! Once your dog has stopped at the flight of a bird, You release him by going to him and saying "all right" or tapping him on the head. If you consistently release him on command, he will learn to stand and wait for that command.

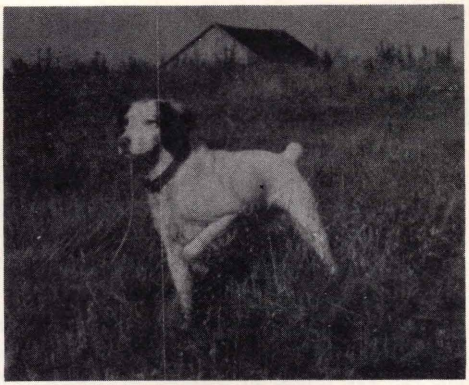

A correct and mannerly stop to flush is a thing of beauty, and, if done under adverse conditions, such as a bracemate taking out your dogs bird, it can make the difference in placing your dog or not. It is the added

"finish" that professionally trained dogs usually have, and most amateur trained dogs do not.

A stop to flush should be taught, for in addition to being of great assistance at a field trial, it can also result in that "sleeper" in the bag while hunting.

TO COOK A CROW

Now that the crow has been declared a game bird, a serious question is raised: What's a good recipe?

In many states it's unlawful to discard the meat of a game species. If you shoot it you gotta eat it, and that must apply to crow as well as quail.

Some wild game cookbooks have crow recipes—often at the back of the book with baked skunk saddle and boiled bushes. Now and then a sportsmen's club game dinner will feature crow hash or crow chili, but there's usually a lot left over.

That last crow that we ate was fixed by Roger "Fence-Cutter" Willis of Fort Cobb, Okla. That was his legal name, earned by adjusting certain park boundaries during his one political campaign, and he was a specialist in pickled crow gizzards. We always liked Fence-Cutter, but didn't care a whole lot for his pickled crow gizzard. It was about what you'd expect, considering what a crow puts through its gizzard in a bad year. Or even a good year.

Still, we've been told by a few bull cooks that barbecued crow is fit for the gods if you have the right sauce. Maybe so. And to such culinary artists we make a standing offer: one crow (in feather) for one quail, and we'll even throw in a pint of Fence-Cutter's gizzard pickle.

INFORMATION FOR NOVICE EXHIBITORS

At a Dog Show, dogs compete for prizes, championship points and top awards. It is an event where dog breeders and fanciers gather for the main purpose of "improving the breed", and to enjoy their hobby or avocation.

All Dog Shows where championship points are awarded are held under the rules of the American Kennel Club (AKC), which has the responsibility of licensing judges and superintendents, registering purebred dogs, and keeping records of the awards and points given at every Dog Show.

To be eligible for point competition, a dog must be a pure-bred specimen of any of the 116 breeds recognized by the AKC, and must be AKC registered. A dog must be at least 6 months old and have no disqualifying fault. AKC rules state in part that "A dog which is blind, deaf, castrated, spayed, or which has been changed in appearance by artificial means except as specified in the Standard for its breed, or a male which does not have two normal testicles normally located in the scrotum, may not compete at any show and will be disqualified". Other disqualifying faults are listed in the Standard for each breed.

Why should a dog be shown? If a dog is a good specimen of the breed, it is not fair to the dog not to show it. The sporting factor challenges each exhibitor and his dog at each show, as all judges do not have the same opinion or do not see each dog the same. A dog that wins at one show against the competing dogs may not win at the next show under a different judge, and against other dogs.

The judge is guided by the Standard of Perfection for each breed in making his selections. This Standard describes what is considered a perfect specimen of the breed, and often the relative importance of each detail. The Standard also lists definite faults which are to be discouraged or penalized in the breed.

The judge must study each dog carefully, with his hands as well as his eyes; with the dog in motion as well as standing. He checks on the texture of the coat, firmness of muscle and bone, soundness of body, feet and teeth. The way a dog moves is important, not only for beauty in motion but as a test of body structure.

There are a number of things the handler can do to show his dog to best advantage, and the dog with a lively, intelligent personality and sense of showmanship often has an advantage. But the basis of judging in the show ring is the physical beauty and structural soundness of the dog. The judge compares the dogs in each class and makes the awards to those which best meet the requirements of the Standard.

In what class should a dog be entered? In each breed the exhibitor has the opportunity of entering his dog in one of five regular breed classes: Puppy, Novice, Bred-by-Exhibitor, American-Bred or Open (and in Best of Breed Competition if the dog is an AKC Champion of Record).

Entry blanks supplied with Premium Lists are obtained by writing the superintendent for each show, or are distributed by individual show giving clubs. Entries must be filled out and mailed at least two or three weeks in advance of a regular Dog Show.

THE INHERITANCE OF COAT COLOR IN DOGS

Author: Clarence C. Little, Sc. D.
Publisher: Howell Book House
New York, N. Y.
1957, 3rd Prtg. '71

Since starting this series of book reviews, several people have asked about the various books available concerning the planned breeding of dogs, and the above hard cover books are currently in print and are generally available. Actually, the little pamphlet by Lloyd C. Brackett, entitled PLANNED BREEDING, published by Dog World, should also be included with the above group, it costs less and is quite informative. In addition to these books, the November issue of the AKC Gazette has an enlightening article on the subject of genetics, and whether anyone inn the Brittany game has any use for these books or not, all should be familiar with Dr. Busteed's series of articles in the American Brittany which were republished in THE BRITTANY IN AMERICA.

The relative value of these books depends upon the prospective breeder's particular goals, if any. There have been plenty of helpful articles in the American Brittany magazine over the years which should serve to support the requirements of most "one shot" breeders, and many others have their own ideas and/or program into all this "Mendelian stuff." To the layman, it would appear that the subject can be as complicated as one wishes to make it, and as far as can be determined, to the expert it is even more complex that that.

There have been some significant advances in the field of micro biology in recent years, and the very beginnings of genetic engineering are observable in the scientific journals, however it is extremely doubtful that a computer map with associated molecular level scanning and manipulative techniques will be available for breeding dogs within the life time of anyone old enough to read this magazine. Yet in spite of this complexity, there are general rules available and the written observations of competent researchers to guide the selection and mating of our canine companions, should we care to use them. It would seem that this is particularly important to those interested in the long term development of a specific dual type dog, because, unlike those breeding only for physical conformation characteristics, the dual aspect makes selection more difficult and takes much longer between generations. If one bred his dogs on the average of 2½ years of age, in twenty years the breeder would have eight generations of a family or "strain", which would be about enough to get the job done—if (and only if) very few mistakes were made.

Before going into the review of the above noted books, one might ask from all this research if there were any relatively certain way of increasing the odds of getting an excellent litter the first time. The answer would seem to be as follows: Pick a dog with all the admirable characteristics one desires, determine that he has thrown a high percentage of outstanding puppies, determine that both his parents were outstanding dogs in their own right, determine that all or most of his littermates were outstanding dogs and free from defect; then find an outstanding bitch who is a half sister of this dog, who's other parent was also outstanding, and all or most of whose littermates were outstanding dogs; buy the bitch, breed the half sister to the half brother, keep the whole litter, discard any latent recessive problems which show up, and keep the best ones. The further one is forced to move away from this proposed ideal the more rapidly the odds would seem to diminish, hence the concept of a common grandparent of great merit, which is safer than closer inbreeding.

The Onstott book, THE NEW ART OF BREEDINNG BETTER DOGS, is basically a primer devoted to the application of simple Mendelian principles to dog breeding, and as such it is very good. Even though the illustrations of the applications of the basic principles are primarily conformation, or "show dog" oriented, the introduction is well presented and the book is highly recommended for this purpose.

Dr. Whitney's book, titled simply "HOW TO BREED DOGS" is much more comprehensive than the Onstott book and covers many specifics with regard to inherited characteristics. Dr. Whitney has been a very prolific writer, and this is the third edition of this particular book. From a reading of several of his other books, it is apparent that his writing skills have also improved with time, and this book is very informative in many areas of interest to breeders of a dual type dog. The book is liberal in its use of photographs, and some of the statistics he has amassed are very impressive. Dr. Whitney states that he has bred under observation over twelve thousand puppies, and the tabulated results of his many cross breedings yield a good deal of information of value to the prospective Brittany breeder. His observations on the inheritance of timidity, birdiness, ground scenting, and other characteristics are invaluable. His little chapter on "hybrid vigor", known more accurately as heterosis to the expert, and termed the "mule effect" by this reviewer, is very neatly done, and explains rather clearly the wide dispersion of capability of the progeny of some of the more outstanding dogs in the history of the Brittany in the United States.

The book by Little, THE INHERITANCE OF COAT COLOR IN DOGS, is obviously a scientific treatise written either to get an advanced degree in the hallowed halls of academia or to justify the continuance of some endowment. It does discuss the inheritance of coat color with enough sciencemanship to snow the average reader as was apparently intended, and is of little value to the breeder of the Brittany Spaniel.

The little pamphlet by Brackett tells one man's story of the development of a "strain" of German Shepherds and is quite informative. The reader must of course extrapolate from the purely "show" requirements to those of demonstrative performance, which is a long step, but nevertheless it is a helpful little book.

In closing, the articles written by Dr. Busteed and reprinted in THE BRITTANY IN AMERICA are a mandatory introduction to the subject of genetics for the Brittany breeder, and the Onstott and Whitney books will supply a great deal of helpful information.

Goshen's Doctor Sam. Sam. Sam, a son of Ch. Cageo's Little Rascal ex Ch. Little Bit of Trouble, announced his arrival in championship competition, by going Best Puppy at the Susquehanna Brittany Specialty under judge Henry McCauley on October 4, 1974, and then repeated this performance under judge P. Carl Tuttle on October 11, 1974 at the North Jersey Brittany Specialty. Two days later, Sam went WD and BW at the Rock Creek K.C. show on October 13, 1974. He is shown here with judge Erica Huggins and his handler George D. Edge, Jr. Sam's dam, the flashy liver and white Ch. Little Bit of Trouble, already pointed in the field, is with Rick Smith working towards her Dual title. His sire, Ch. Cageo's Little Rascal, is the sire of six champions with others pointed. He was bred and is owned by Frank Norris, Goshen Kennels, Rt. 1, Box 170, Kenansville, N.C. 28349.

Ch. Rodamer's Farceur de Kaygen, OFA No. BS-757, finished his championship on March 31, 1973 at the Western Pennsylvania Kennel Association show under Judge Gladys Groskin. "Joker" is pictured going BOB his first time out as a special at the Mountaineer Kennel Club show under judge Dr. Rex B. Foster. In BOB competition he is undefeated in the breed. Joker is owned by Charles E. Higgins, Gordonsville, Va. and has been totally handled by Mr. & Mrs. Higgins. He is a broke gun dog in quail, grouse, and woodcock. Joker is sired by Dual Ch. Suzabob's Gigolo out of Ch. Suzabob's Bebo Britt. He was bred by Charles S. Rodamer who still owns two champion littermates.

Duchess Mae Bea finished her Amateur Field Championship at just three years two months. Duchess, a quick little orange and white female, finished her title with two 1st place Amateur All-Age wins and a second in the Amateur Gun Dog all in 1974. Duchess was entered seven times in the fall of 1974 and placed four times. Sired by Saiwoods Cheynne Rebel, who has 8 placements under four different handlers, ex Sally Roselle, a fine Wisconsin hunting dog. Duchess is OFA certified and contemplating pups this summer. She is amateur handled and owned by Roger & Kathy King, 2131 Seventh St. Eau Claire, WI 54701 Ph. 715-835-1475.

He will be missed by Mr. and Mrs. Gary Beasley his owners, by Lyle and Marge Johnson his trainers, and field trialers who were impressed with his performances.

BILMAR'S CHOCOLATE CHIP

Bilmar's Chocolate Chip died on December 24, 1974, of Nocardiosis. The disease had been mistakenly diagnosed as pneumonia. "Barney", a son of Dual Ch. Way Kan Fritts, was only 2½ at the time of his death. He was never run in adult stakes, but had 12 puppy and derby placements out of a total of 20 trials, three of them firsts. He was an intelligent bird dog with a bright future, and leaves many happy memories of trialing and hunting. He was a member of the family, and is greatly missed by his owners, Mary Ann and Bill Bandy.

IN MEMORIAM

Why should I say I'm sorry,
I have no reason to cry.

What more could a friend have given
And never once questioned, Why?

A handful of years is a lifetime
Lest true love pass us by.

The silly games we cherished
Are now the clouds on high.

I'll call to you and wonder
Will I join you one day nigh

In fields that he has painted

FROM THE FIELD TRIAL DEPARTMENT

by Bob Humphrey

Following are excerpts from the November 1974 issue of the Pure-Bred dogs . . .

DISCRIMINATING BETWEEN ENTRANTS

In recent weeks, alert field trialers have brought to our (AKC) attention several instances where a field trial club has mailed an invitation statement with their Premium List saying that "Professional Handlers and members of their family would be guests of the Club at the Field Trial banquet". The above is in violation of Chapter 9, Section 10 of the Field Trail Rules for Pointing Breeds .

MARKING DIRECTIONS TO FIELD TRIAL GROUNDS

Reports received from (AKC) representatives attending trials state there are too many instances of sketchy locations on Premium Lists, and some were inaccurate. It is an AKC Rule for all types of field trials that the Premium List for a trial must "give the exact location of the trial".

POINT BREED TRIALS— SPLITTING OF PRIZES OR PLACEMENTS

While it is not specifically spelled out in the Rules covering Pointing Breed field trials, the AKC has no provision for the splitting of prizes or places at such events. If the judges are going to award a 1st, 2nd, 3rd or 4th place in any stake at a trial, they must be satisfied that the dog to receive the award has actually won the placement. If the performances of two dogs appear to be equal in the minds of the judges, and both dogs are contenders for a placement, the judges have full authority to continue to test the dogs until they are satisfied that one of the dogs had defeated the other.

At a recent Point Breed field trial, the judges agreed that two dogs had tied for fourth placement. In this particular case, since the judges did not award the fourth place to one dog alone, the AKC had no choice but to consider that no fourth place was, in fact, awarded.

DOGS HAVE SUCH FUNNY EARS

How do you treat an injury to your dog's ears — VERY CAREFULLY!

Some dogs suffer ear injuries caused by their overanxious owners, who probe or try to clean the ear with a hard or pointed object. Whatever the cause, dogs may suffer from various kinds of ear infections.

If you suspect your dog has ear trouble, the best thing to do is to leave the ear alone and consult your veterinarian.

The more noticeable symptoms of ear ailments are black caking around the canal just inside the ear. Your dog may also paw at his ear, or shake his head a lot, or hold his head at a strange angle.

If the surface of your dog's ear seems to be dry, it is safe to wipe it with a mild ointment. Or, if the surface appears to be moist, as if from mild discharge, you can dust it with a powder containing boric acid.

You may notice a strong, cheesy odor coming from his ear, or thick waxy material and matted hair on the ear surface. Or, the ear turns red and becomes inflamed.

These more obvious symptoms usually indicate infection. You should avoid using medications or insecticides you have around the house. They may only worsen your dog's condition. Instead, consult your veterinarian at once.

Sometimes ear ailments are caused by nothing more than an insect bite, a minor ulceration, or a small pimple. But even these minor inflammations can upset your dog. He can become quite annoyed and irritate the ear until both you and he become frantic, and the situation worsens.

Whatever the ailment, when the ears are involved it is better to be too careful than to be nonchalant. Neglecting a relatively simple matter may lead to something more serious.

Hematomas — a swelling that contains blood — sometimes occur in the middle of the skin of the ear flap. They may result from a sharp blow which ruptures the blood vessels in the ear; or, by your dog scratching and shaking his ear as a result of ear inflammation or an infection.

The swelling, which may greatly distend the ear, must be treated by your veterinarian.

Long eared and floppy-eared dogs are particularly subject to hematomas, for there is little air circulating inside the ear. A scratch or laceration which would heal ordinarily can become worse because the dog's ear flap may prevent air circulation.

Occasionally, dogs suffer from otitis media — an inflammation of the middle ear. This condition comes from an infection of the external ear passage or the nasal passage by way of the Eustachian tube — the tube connecting the middle ear with the upper part of the throat. Common symptoms are pain, fever, ear discharge, and possible loss of balance. Immediate treatment by your veterinarian is essential.

Often chronic ear irritations are caused by mites that settle in the ear. Symptoms of this infection are the same as for other ear infections. Again, you may observe a waxy, dark secretion accompanied by a sour cheesy odor.

Even though your veterinarian appears to have flushed out all the mites, a few might go undetected. Prompt attention to mites can give your dog temporary relief from misery. Regular treatment from your veterinarian can provide him with extended control.

Your dog can be irritated by something as simple as too much wax in the ear. It is best, regardless of all the home remedies you may have read, to have your veterinarian take a look. If there is an accumulation of wax in the ear, you may cause serious damage by attempting to dislodge it.

When you suspect your dog is suffering from an ear ailment, you can help save him from developing a more serious condition by consulting your veterinarian, at the first sign of a problem.

ALAMO

by Rex Tackett

The Alamo Club's fall trial kicked off with the thermometer clinging at a mere 28°, frost on the ground, and a north wind that we south Texans figure Gene Spires and Bud Lieker brought from Kansas.

We all were shiverin' and shakin' when the trial started slightly after sun rise at the Calaveras Lake Property just south of San Antonio.

Everyone thought the cold would have the birds sitting tight, the moisture would make scenting conditions favorable, and the breeze would carry the scent. But, it didn't work out just like that. Bird work was at a premium much of the time as the birds seemed to be holding up in the brush, with those in the open skiddish and wind-washed. A dog that wouldn't stop to flush in the adult stakes just didn't have a chance. We had many dogs go birdless even when the gallery was riding up an ample supply of bobs. It was the kind of days you always choose to show-off the Britt to a long-tail owner skeptic.

Here's how it went as 83 entries hunted for the trophies, ribbons, and points. Leo Hearn and yours truly took a close look at the adult stakes as Richard Loughridge and Joy Watkins buttoned up their coats and presided over the Derby and Puppy competitions.

The Open All Age was won by Marc Appleton's charge, Dr. Scott's Tough Enough as he hunted hard and finished strong with a clean find and a mannerly stop to flush on a spooky bob white. Brandy's Bandit Warrior took second with one clean find. He started a little slow but gained momentum through the brace and was going away when time was called. Jerry Watkins, Rupe's Susie Que and Jerry Armstrong's and Fred Bremner's Royal Way Kan Tammy took third and fourth with a mannerly find each.

Flint's Lucky Star, in the Derby, took home the blue for pro Gene Spires with a race that had the judges talking to each other. She was called back to perform on birds and prove his point. Second went to Jacolet Cheyenne Dingo under Marc Appleton's whistle with a wild and stylish race characterized by two Derby finds. Third was won by Bill's Ferocious Pharaoh handled by Bill Hughes. Pharaoh handled well to the front with one find. Appleton placed again taking fourth with Hi-Flyer after a driving race and a bird on the call back.

The Derby ended Sunday morning as we rushed into the Amateur All Age. Bill Hughes put down a little bitch that ate the course up with a performance that was a pleasure to watch. Treasure Coast Cricket exhibited the range, drive, bird sense and ease of handling all admire. Cricket backed Susie Que, the second place dog on an unproductive. Then when both were released, a short distance down the course Cricket snapped in on a high standing point. Susie Que came around a willow and hit point herself not fifteen feet from Cricket, never seeing her bracemate in the high grass. Both handlers moved in for the flush as the feeding birds rose all around Cricket and in front of Susie. Susie stood high and turned her head to mark the birds as Cricket seemed to stand on her toes as both handlers fired. I wish this paragraph were a color photograph; it was so beautiful! Third and fourth were withheld.

The Puppy ran concurrently with the Amateur. Bright Copper Penny, under the hand of Gene Spires was the class puppy with a strong breakaway, charging wide race and strong finish. Ravera's Rebel Trooper Will, handled by Morris took second with a strong start and easy handling. Randy Jones followed Little Mike Bazooka of Tejas to third and fourth went to Britthaven Lightening as Bill Hughes collected his third ribbon of the trial with three separate dogs.

As the Open Gun Dog began it looked as though we might still be running the continuous courses at Calaveras Monday morning. But it seemed the dogs understood the problem by making their mis-ques early and those that decided not to run didn't wait long to let all present know their ill intent. The birds kept up their previously reported hi-jinx up to the ninth brace when Hud of Richmont started finding birds. First with a non-productive and two stops to flush mixed-in on jettery birds. Then he had a classy covey find that made it look like he had it wrapped up. His race was good but a little independent of his handler for a gun dog. However, Hud had it going for him pretty well until Second Chance forced him to settle for second as Chan took the blue. Chan was a pleasure to watch as it became evident that this last brace dog was going to take it home. She had a stop to flush generated by her bracemate and another by birds going wild as she turned down wind. Then Chan put together three letter-perfect finds. There was no question as to who won. Third and fourth were withheld.

A special thank you for coming those two Kansans, Marc Appleton from Oklahoma, Mr. & Mrs. Bill Gerrard from New Orleans and we were honored to have Madiza Van Deusen and Dicie Speck all the way from Connecticutt.

Y'll come see us.

SOUTHERN KANSAS

FALL TRIAL

On Oct. 19th and 20th the Southern Kansas Brittany Club held their fall trial on the John Floyd Ranch at Sedan, Kansas. A rare event happened that weekend. That is, we didn't have to hold our trial in the rain and mud. Having to change our date to accommodate the Midwest Futurity stake, the weather was warm—in the 70's and dry. This made it very nice for the spectators, but hard on the dogs.

Although our trial was smaller than previous years, everyone worked just as hard to make it a very enjoyable weekend. Thanks go to Richard Graves, FTC and his helpers Herb Rea, Cecil Duncan, Ray Reynolds and Tom Fife. Without the help of Jody Rea and Judy Patterson no one would of got fed. Thanks gals!

The Open All Age and Derby stakes were run on continuous courses. Our judges, Dr. C. T. Young and Duane Werneke had a job to do since birds were scarce and scenting conditions were bad. Thus, the dogs were placed primarily on race and were called back for bird work on planted quail.

The first two dogs placed in the Amateur All Age stake each have over 100 placements to their credit. Char-Lee O'Dee, in addition went home with the Marvin Nelson Perpetual trophy.

IDAHO

FALL TRIAL

The Idaho Brittany Club held its fall field trial September 6-8, 1974, with the Limited All-Age opening the trial on Friday morning. The weather was hot, hot, hot and by mid-afternoon all the dogs were showing signs of the weather and the low humidity. This proved to be a rather impressive stake; however, the judges were so impressed with Way-Kan Bing's performance that he took home the honors.

The Open All-Age broke away early Saturday morning in much cooler temperatures and the gallery and spectators saw lots of action packed braces. Although there were some spectacular performances and several good dogs, again Way-Kan Bing proved his "stuff" and walked off with the blue.

Puppy stakes are always fun to watch—the little "boog-gers" are unpredictable and the least distraction sends them astray. The puppy braces showed several good running entries and potential winners. Fieldmark's Tout Suite proved to have what the judges were looking for and took a blue for handler Jack Brooks. Dajo's Flying Scooter, a mere 7½ months old, placed second, with Torr's Brandy and Millette's Orange Parfait completing the placements.

Well!! Black Butte's Double Shot did it again in winning the Derby. There were some mighty fine running Derbies and the wide open spaces of our field trial grounds gave them an a opportunity to do just that.

The Amateur Gun Dog, won by Jacolet Pride and handled by Fred Williams impressed the judges enough to capture first place. Charlie's style, coupled with his ability and disposition is something to watch. All the entries worked well for their handlers and even though the number was small, the grounds gave the dogs a chance to perform.

The trial went along very well except for our food situation. At the last minute the caterer did not show for Sunday's feeding, but thanks to two of our lady members who went into town and bought food, no one went hungry.

Our sincere thanks to all who participated and to all who worked for our trial to be a success. Perhaps next year the ole weather man will cooperate better and send us cooler temperatures.

CALIFORNIA
FALL TRIAL

by Kim Marsh

The California Brittany Club held its fall trial on October 9th & 10th under clear blue skies and with famous Southern California hospitality. The trial went along at a nice pace, with approximately 100 entries, giving the new membership a chance to help in the many tasks. Special thanks to the Woelms, Christians, Kurokawas, and the other gals in the club who put together a great feed over the two days.

The Open All-Age got off and running on Saturday and produced a great field performance by Jim Hildebrand's Shotgun's Lil Red Waggin handled by Carl Percell. Carl bagged a blue ribbon and a Field Championship subject to AKC approval with Red, while Jim was away big game hunting. Congratulations to both handler and owner.

Jay Case handled Ch. Tate's Country Gentleman to a close second place, and Jack Brooks rounded out the stake with two consistent performers in Jojo's Suzi and Kiley.

The Amateur Gun Dog, always a popular stake, was also run on Saturday. Ejner Lund brought Reddy to the winner's circle after two stylish finds and a solid backcourse.

The Derby stake, continuing the tradition of outstanding competition over the last several seasons, was won by Terry Parkhurst and his Scipio's Big Tipper. Terry also placed Tipper in the Puppy stake rounding out a fine weekend. Other Derby placements included Rio Diable handled by Carl Percell, Fieldmark's Toute Suite handled by Dr. Light, and a newcomer to the trial ranks, Jim Bivins with Beauchamp's Tache de Son placing fourth. Jim flew out of the clouds from a plane trip, then his placement put him into orbit again.

Ejner Lund waited until the Amateur All-Age stake was about finished to put his other hound, Ricky, into first place. With wall to wall birds in the bird field, Ricky had 4 finds, 1 back, and a backcourse with all stops out. This topped a great stake with the other placements proving very tough competition.

The Puppy stake entry was small with only eight dogs entered. Sam Bass, showing excellent range and stamina, owned and handled by J. D. Denman was first and could have won any puppy stake.

We wish to thank all our judges for a fine job in helping to put together a very successful trial.

LA SALLE
FALL TRIAL

October 19 and 20, was a week-end that members of our club will be talking about and reminiscing about for a long time. In conjunction with our field trial, we also celebrated our tenth anniversary. Over a hundred people attended the social hour and banquet to help commemorate this occasion.

With an entry of 134 dogs to look at, the judges had two days of judging cut out for them. The Open All Age, Puppy and Gun Dog Stakes were run on Saturday. Red Walker came into the winners' circle in the Open All-Age when Bibs Bippy, who had a fine all around performance on the back course and fine bird work in the bird field, received the big blue ribbon. Second, third and fourth places were taken by, who else but the cagy old Pro Jim Holman.

The Puppy stake with 16 starters had a fine crop of youngsters but just not quite good enough. First place went to Brandy of Wisconsin handled by Diane Kazmier. Brandy had a fine break away and covered the course with ease all the way.

As you would know, the Gun Dog stake with 24 entries was won by Fld. Ch. Tyrone De Malibeau handled by the old master Ben Sims. Ty put on his usual performance as if Ben was just a spectator. Second place was held, with third and fourth place going to two of our club members' dogs, Hi-Spirit Covey Buster by Bob Robinson, and Cinnamon Sioux handled by Doug Birchfield. Both dogs displayed good ground cover and fine bird work.

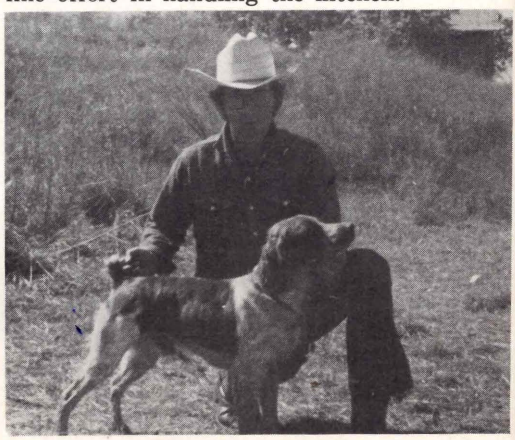

Sunday morninng early the Derby and Amateur All-Age Britts were turned loose to try for a spot in the winners' circle. In the Derby Stake a big running Britt from Baldwin, Mo., Way Kan Frosty, handled by Tony Ramspott had no problems running the course and did an excellent job in the bird field to gain first place. The other two dogs, handled by Denny Henrickson and Gerry Cohen, proved they have the ability to become all-age dogs. The fourth place winner Snicker Fritts De Malibeau handled by Jeff Ray, met with an accident at the St. Louis trial. Our club members offer our condolences to Stan Lehman on his loss.

Edmar's Coco of Forest Hills in the Amateur All Age handled by Ed Gigowski came through for his owner by taking the coveted blue ribbon with good ground work in addition to his steadiness in the bird field. A fine performance for second and third place was displayed by Holley Haven Heidi handled by Doug Croxton, and Britvic's Dandy Deamon handled by Bill Schreiber. The win for Dandy was encouraging to Bill as Dandy had just come off the ailing list. Fourth place was withheld.

Our members want to thank the judges for their time and patience, as two days in the saddle is no easy chore. A job well done.

Out of the field there were many winning performances also. In that old game "Chesky Wins", it seems dogs are eligible to enter. (Maybe that's the secret to winning!) And out of the three new fifth wheels, there was only one who managed to leave their water pump running too long. (The water is supposed to extinguish the fire, not start one!)

It is a great satisfaction to have members that pitch in to plant birds, marshal and handle the running order. The gals put forth a fine effort in handling the kitchen.

GREATER ATLANTA

FALL TRIAL

by Kay Clark

Know what it's like to have a great trial? Some Brittany fans who were in Albany, Georgia, November 8 and 9, do! Reasonable organization and effort and a lot of luck got things ALL together at our fall trial on Blue Springs Plantation. If you can believe it — the weather, courses, facilities, quail population, judging, hospitality, and Brittanies were all superb.

George McLendon, secretary, and the other hard-working club members can't really take all the credit for the trial's success. Those amazingly birdy courses and the comfortable and convenient club house, kennels, and stables were available to us because of the generosity of Paul Mountcastle. Many thanks to Mr. Mountcastle, his staff, and to our judging teams of Bubba Pearce and Billy Henley, Ralph Bruner and C. C. Sapp. Dr. Sapp is an Albany veterinarian and experienced judge of bird dogs. The other 3 gentlemen are plantation managers who really know how to pick a winner.

The trial was particularly enjoyable for GABC's Kevin Heeney who handled his HOJO'S JAKE to two firsts in the Open All-Age and Amateur Gun Dog stakes and the completion of his field title, subject to AKC approval. Jake showed good application and had a total of 8 perfectly located coveys to earn the championship points and the blue ribbons.

Hoby stood second in the All-Age with his wide open race and one clean find. A consistent and forward pattern placed Cutty third, and Wee Gillie with two finds and a stop to flush took fourth.

The Gun Dog winners followed with good races, easy handling, and clean birdwork.

Running on the South course were the Puppy and Derby entrants having a great time chasing those wild quail. Puppy winner Charlie had 7 enthusiastic game contacts during his 20 minutes. Other trophy takers, Senator, Dan, and Sting, were surprising to watch with their mature, consistent races even though all 3 were barely old enough to enter the stake.

Rascal came through with some big casts and a solid point for his owner-handler Bob Larsen and earned the Derby blue. Placing next were two littermates, Pete and Meg, owned and handled by Ray Cheney. These two should have a great future in the adult stakes. Their bird contact manners were exceptional for being only Derby-aged. Hey U brought in fourth with a fair race and one find.

This was the first time GABC was able to sponsor an all continuous course, no bird field trial. Just about everyone participating commented on the relaxed and pleasant atmosphere and the smooth operation of the trial. If we are lucky enough to arrange a future event at Blue Springs, we hope that more of you will be able to come and enjoy it with us.

ELIMINATE DELAYED CHASE!

5 EASY STEPS

1. Select club reporter
2. Provide a horse
3. Ride; watch; talk to the judges
4. Type report double spaced
5. Send to secretary so it may be included with winners' forms which are due 1 week after trial

Another trial season is in full swing. Each club is entitled to 2 pages each season. These write-ups are eagerly anticipated by many. Let's work to eliminate Delayed Chase!

U. S. OPEN BRITTANY CHAMPIONSHIP

by David A. Fletcher

Performance bordering the spectacular carried Jacolet's Wandering Star, Brittany female, just three years of age, to the title of U.S. Open Brittany Champion, topping a field of 32 of the nation's Britts over well known courses at Lake Murray State Park near Ardmore, Okla. Star was handled by Rick Smith to her title for owner Paul Hinch of Tulsa, Okla. She sparkled in her initial qualifying hour and had sufficient if not overwhelming finesse in the finals to gain runner-up position.

The Championship had a starting field of 32. This was narrowed to eleven call backs after the one-hour qualifying series.

The "Victoire Nationale," John Doak's monicker for the newly inaugurated one-hour Derby Classic, attracted a field of 18, and the running consumed the final day and one-half of the program, consisting of a single series.

An outstanding winner emerged in the Senator T. J., 23 months of age, handled by Terry Cleary. The dog has a full-blown all-age pattern well developed, and his attractiveness in motion is eye-arresting to say the least. Senator is owned by Thomas D. Bellefield of Athens, Ga. Runner-up was Way Kan Taffy, 21 months of age, female owned by Gerald Price of Concordia, Kans., handled by Lyle Johnson. Taffy was braced with the winner, displayed a pretty way of going and turned in a great exhibition of hunting. There was a great deal of quality in the stake.

DOVE INSTINCTS

My wife and I went to look at a house recently, and as we approached a large spruce tree planted in the front yard, we got to watch quite a show. A dove dived from the tree, crashed to the lawn at our feet and fluttered across the yard, trying to lure us away from the tree. Unsuccessful in its attempts, it retreated to a walnut tree to watch. Before leaving, I checked the nest, which was only about six feet from the ground, and still sitting on her eggs was the actor's mate, wide-eyed but refusing to move.

"survival kit" for the stressed canine...

SCIENCE DIET®
Maximum Stress Diet

Formulated to meet the increased energy requirements of dogs under stress... show dogs, hunting dogs, field trial dogs, sentry or police dogs, etc.

MINIMUM CALORIC DENSITY-more useable calories per pound.

MINIMUM FOOD INTAKE-more economical cost-per-day feeding.

NO SUPPLEMENTATION-eliminates guesswork, mixing and waste.

GREATLY REDUCED FECAL VOLUME-from 50 to 75 percent.

Feeding a stressed dog requires providing increased energy (calories) in a diet that still contains ALL OTHER necessary nutrients properly balanced to the caloric density. As stress increases, the food intake (necessary to supply the additional energy) must also increase.

While increasing the food intake WILL provide additional energy, there is a limit to the volume of food a dog can consume. Therefore a stressed dog must be provided with the increased energy in a food which is more concentrated than ordinary dog foods... a diet with a large amount of energy in a relatively small quantity of food.

One cup (or pouch) of Maximum Stress Diet provides more useable energy than 3-4 cups of ordinary dry dog food.

Maximum Stress Diet is a complete and balanced diet designed to be fed "as is." For more information on this remarkable diet write:
